Hani arrived at our hospital after being referred from another facility, suffering from severe aortic coarctation, which had caused dangerously high blood pressure, persistent fatigue, and intermittent claudication that prevented him from leading a normal life. The only option for securing his health and future was an urgent medical intervention.

With skilled hands and unwavering dedication, our team successfully performed the dilation using a covered stent (Begrift) in the cardiac catheterization lab. Thanks to God, the procedure was a remarkable success!
