A Journey of Hope: From Kidney Failure to Recovery

Our patient endured years of end-stage renal failure, bravely undergoing repeated dialysis sessions—until relief finally came through a kidney transplant in Turkey. As is well known, the success of a kidney transplant depends on the continued use of immunosuppressive medications that ensure the proper functioning of the transplanted organ.

However, due to the blockade imposed by the former regime on northwestern Syria and the difficulty of regularly accessing medication, the patient was forced to stop her treatment. As a result, her immune system attacked the transplanted kidney, leading once again to kidney failure and a return to frequent dialysis sessions.

A Table of Hope in Ramadan: SEMA France Hosts Iftar for 1,500 Orphan Families

On a Ramadan night filled with generosity and brotherhood, an iftar table stretched out to welcome 1,500 people from orphan families at Tishreen Stadium in Damascus. This humanitarian initiative was supported by SEMA France, in cooperation with the Ne'mah Preservation Organization and several companies, offering a glimmer of hope to ease the weight of difficult times.

This iftar was not merely a meal to satisfy hunger—it was a moment of warmth and human connection for those children who have lost their guardians. Laughter filled the air, and the spirit of unity and joy embraced the gathering.

Medical Support for Hospitals in Syria's Coastal Region

As part of its emergency response to support hospitals and health centers in Syria's coastal areas, the Syrian Expatriate Medical Association (SEMA) has delivered a shipment of medications to the Health Directorates of Latakia and Tartous, in coordination with the Idlib Health Directorate.

These medications will be distributed to hospitals and health centers in both provinces that are suffering from critical shortages of medical supplies.

Despite the significant challenges, SEMA continues to exert every effort to provide further medical support—ensuring the continued operation of healthcare facilities and enabling them to deliver essential care to patients and those in need as effectively as possible.
